THRIFT NEEDED HAYS DECLARES

and had to begin to function in the midst of the haste and disorder of war. What was with your great companies the quiet and orderly growth of half a century was in the case of the war risk insurance bureau the hasty improvization of three years. Whatever may be the record of that three years, the facts of our stewardship are these:

Claims and Cases.

On the 4th day of March this bureau had 200,000 claims and cases pending in its business. The unhappy significance of these figures you will quickly interpret in the light of your own experience in your own companies. Today all these back claims have been cleaned up. Claims are now considered and disposed of with a promptness approximating that of your own companies. The work of the department is current—that is to say, all action which the bureau may take on a given case is current although new claims are being filed at the rate of 700 per day. This is one of the things President Harding has been able to accomplish through the selection of able and earnest men dedicated to the public service, eager and willing to throw prodigious energy into the government's work, inspired by him. In indicating what we are trying to do in the direction of government efficiency and economy I merely choose to speak of the War Risk bureau because of your familiarity with the business and your peculiar ability to judge of accomplishments as measured by the difference between 200,000 claims behind on March 4 and the condition of claims up to date and current today.

But the same condition existed practically everywhere through Washington. Aggravated of course by the war situation, yet the inefficiency was not the result of the last few years. It goes to the very heart of the government. The government has been growing for 132 years—but its growth has not been symmetrical like the growth of a tree nor has it been built up like your own great insurance companies. It has been a growth of adding a bureau here and a department there without any regard for relevancy, appropriations, efficiency or economy. The result is that if you could visualize the government as a business or administrative unit, you would see something much like one of those grotesque spectacles of a big oyster shell to which, in the course of the years, big and irregular masses of barnacles have attached themselves without symmetry or relevancy.

I recall hearing the secretary of commerce, Mr Hoover, in a conversation, illustrating the laughable lack of system which he discovered in the distribution of government functions, say that he has charge of the government's polar bears because the Arctic Pribilof islands are under his jurisdiction. But grizzly bears are under the care of Secretary Fall because his department of the interior has charge of Alaska, which, by the way, is not in the interior at all. Brown bears on the other hand, are the wards of Mr. Wallace, of the department of agriculture, who has charge of the national parks. Less humorously but more pointedly I have heard a business man who came to Washington to sell road dressing to the government crying to heaven that he had to see eight different departments. The roads in the national parks are under one department the roads in military reservations under a second, public roads under a third, drives around the capitol under a fourth and so on.

I can give you illustration after illustration of this sort of thing. The coast guard maintains 300 life saving stations along our coast; the coast guard is in the treasury department. The lighthouse service has about the same number of lighthouses many of them located within a few steps of the life saving stations. But the lighthouse service is in the department of commerce!

Government Work.

A half dozen separate agencies of the government are now engaged in disseminating intelligence to the navigation interests of the country. Charts of the American sections of the Great Lakes are prepared and furnished by the lake survey of the war department. Charts of the Canadian sections of the great lakes and of foreign waters are furnished by the navy department; charts of our Atlantic and Pacific coast and of territorial waters are prepared and furnished by the department of commerce. Storm warnings are sent out by the weather bureau of the department of agriculture and nautical almanacs are provided by the naval observatory.

It is not necessary, I am sure, to point out the numerous duplications of overhead, of plant, equipment and personnel, which unavoidably accompany this scattering of similar work among different departments. To all intents and purposes the ten great executive departments have been functioning independently of each other; and the forty odd "bureaus and commissions," not under any cabinet officer, conducted their business practically without any co-ordinating influence whatever.

Now, for the first time in 132 years a president is going to the heart of this matter. He is going to make the organization of the government's business as orderly and as properly co-ordinated—and therefore as economical and efficient as are the organizations of your own great life insurance companies. If I say that this is a task of huge difficulties, unimaginable to anyone who has not looked into it, and too long and complex for anyone to describe on this occasion—if I say that the difficulties that face us in this task alone are appalling, I say it merely to state a fact and not to prepare an alibi in advance.

I would not presume to suggest, of course, the final detail of this effort, but it would seem natural to expect the creation of a department of public works: the establishment of a department of public welfare, independently or merged with labor with which it is so intimately connected, to have charge of all bureaus and offices which handle relief work for the veterans of the war with Germany, including the bureau of war risk insurance, federal board of vocational education, hospitalization, division of public health, and all those bureaus which would deal with health questions generally and with educational and social welfare. The stripping of the treasury department of all except its necessary and proper fiscal functions. The transfer of all non-military work from the war department and the navy department to the regular civilian departments of the government. Enlargement of the department of commerce and transfer to that department of all agencies which have to do with the promotion of commerce and the protection of navigation. The establishment of a centralized purchasing agency to do the buying of all branches of the executive establishment. Full functioning of the budget system, and all together a re-organization which will bring a material reduction of the overhead expenses of the federal establishment and an improvement in the quality of the service rendered the public in much the same manner as any of your great insurance companies are managed. There will be "more business in government as well as less government in business." We are pledged to the task. Every effort shall be made to accomplish it. It is a matter in which you are all most vitally interested, for you are indeed, large stockholders in this institution we call the United States. Your help and co-operation are most earnestly sought.

Postal Service.

Before I pass from what is, in proportion to the whole, a mere allusion to what we must do in the direction of administrative efficiency and economy, I want to say something about my own department. I ask you to indulge me in this because it is so near my own heart and because it really does indeed concern you. The postal service, touching most intimately the largest number of people and coming in most direct contact with the business and personal activities of the country, has been taken a good deal for granted like the sequence of the seasons. Men forget that it is a fact the United States postal service is the biggest distinct business in the world; that we have 300,000 employes immediately connected with the operation, with 100,000,000 customers. The annual turnover of the business in the post office department amounts to nearly $3,000,000,000, with an expenditure of $600,000,000. We have the largest express company in the world, handling over two billion packages last year. We have the largest savings bank in the world in number of depositors, with seventy-five per cent of them of foreign extraction. There is twice as much postal business done in New York City alone as in the entire Dominion of Canada. The business of the New York office has increased 289 per cent. since 1912—with no increase in postal facilities since that date. A million seven hundred thousand letters are handled every hour by the post-office department. Every time you buy a postage stamp you are a part of a total of fourteen billion annually. There are 1,126,000,000 postal cards sold each year and 9,000,000 stamped envelopes; debts to the amount of 1,500,000,000 are satisfied each year through the sale of 150,000,000 money orders. The earth could be encircled ten times with the two rails on which the mail is carried in the United States. We use 400,000 quarts of ink in a year and 25,000 quarts of mucilage, and enough lead pencils to place one behind the ear of 1,500,000 persons. We use 800,000 miles of twine every year, enough to girdle the earth thirty times. There are 19,000,000 undeliverable letters handled annually by the division of dead letters owing to the neglect of the public in addressing mail. In New York City alone there are over 250,000 letters readdressed daily by clerks from city directories. Just imagine the tremendous cost this is to the taxpayers, due to carelessness of mailers. Seventy-five per cent. of all mail posted is dumped into the post-office at the end of each day, straining the human postal machine almost of the breaking point. An accumulation of unsettled claims for indemnity on lost and damaged parcels has been reduced from 175,000 in March to a condition that will be current in thirty days more. Fundamental changes are being made daily in the operation of the service.

Morale of Service.

When we took hold of the administration of the postoffice it seemed to me that the field in which the greatest progress could be made in the shortest time was in improving the morale of the service. I was sure that by merely introducing a different spirit into the relations between the department and the employes, by making them more comfortable and giving them assurance about their future commensurate with their worth and importance as a matter of simple justice—by merely doing this I felt confident that we could accomplish the equivalent of adding many thousands of employes to the department. And in proof of the good in human nature and for the benefit of public and private employers everywhere who may contemplate the same step, you will be glad to know this assumption is correct. The most important element in any service is the spirit of the men doing it and we are getting away in the postoffice service from any idea that labor is a commodity. I would reiterate again the suggestion that that idea was abandoned 1921 years ago last Easter.

I am determined in all seriousness to go to great lengths to develop in the department the spirit that we are 300,000 partners. The working conditions in many places are unsatisfactory and a large amount of improvement must be made in that direction. There is no doubt about the quality of our employes. They have the brains and they have the hands to do this job well, but some place along the line the heart had been lost out of the works.

We are developing a welfare department just as definite in its duties and certain in its functioning as the fiscal department or any other department. It is in charge of an individual competent to look after it, doing nothing else. Incidentally, it will interest you and give you pleasure to know that when we sought the very best man in the country to plan this welfare department, to survey the conditions and lay out what should be done, and start it going, we found that man in the person of the vice president of one of your own companies, Mr. Lee K Frankel, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Every other large industry in the country has adopted welfare measures. This humanizing business is not original. It has been the definite trend of American business for the past generation. Just how far we can go with it in the postoffice department I don't know, but it is certain that very much can be done, and not in any sense in lieu of wages. All the things that are done successfully for the welfare of the employes in other successful business must be done as far as possible in this, the greatest of all business. Why it has not been seriously attempted before in the postoffice department I don't know. Uncle Sam must be just as good a boss as any private employer. It is certainly one of the very definite purposes of the days just ahead. If we can improve the spirit and actual conditions of the 300,000 men and women who do this job, that in itself is an accomplishment, and it is just as certain to bring a consequential improvement in the service as tomorrow's sun.

Not for Sale.

I have said, and I reiterate in the dignity and responsibility of this presence, that it is my opinion that the postal establishment is most certainly not an institution for profit nor for politics, but an institution for service, and it is the president's most earnest purpose to improve that service. You can't expect men and women to give service if they are to be shuttlecocks of politics. It would be my very greatest satisfaction if in this effort I contribute a little to the effort that the postal service be made more and more a desirable career into which the young man can enter with a certainty that their service will be performed under reasonable conditions for a reasonable wage and for an appreciative people. The men and women who constitute the great army of employes are doing a distinct government and public service and they are entitled to an appreciation commensurate with the efficacy and importance of that service. The first element of a proper appreciation is to make certain that honest and efficient service shall be honestly recognized and that the merit system shall control without any subterfuge under any circumstances whatsoever. I have said, and I repeat, that my purposes are: First, to make such rectifications as in all decency and fairness must be made to assure a square deal; second, to strengthen and broaden the civil service at every point wherever possible to the end that merit may govern; third, with absolute fidelity to put the entire service upon a purely business basis so sound that no political party will ever again attempt to ignore or evade it ultimately.

I would not fail to mention in passing the accomplishments to date of the budget commission. The saving of over $125,000,000 in the current year under the appropriations already made by congress is an effort worth while. We will save $15,000,000 of this in the postoffice department and without any detriment to the service.

There are just two or three other items of interest in stewardship to which I would presume to call your attention. The true objective of legislation, of course, is a situation like that which obtains today, must be to make as easy as possible for all men the transition from a war condition to a peace condition, a transition unavoidably difficult and painful. The government must make no economically unsound attempt to restrain falling prices, nor to help the producer of goods unreasonably to hold them off the market to the disadvantage of the consumer. But the government properly can and ought to save the producer from being obliged to sell his goods in a disorderly market at a price below what it cost him to produce them and in a manner unreasonably to his disadvantage. In what has been done in legislation there has been a very large appreciation of the importance of the position of the farmer in our basic prosperity. This is evidenced by the additional working capital voted for the farm loan banks with a reduction of rate of interest, the provision for the use of $500,000,000 of government money, in the hands of the war finance corporation to be available for bankers, dealers and others concerned to borrow and to use for the carrying of farm commodities, and the legislation for the regulation of the packing industry and the grain exchanges.

Taxation.

With the rest of the country you are, of course, interested in the matter of taxation. This is the most important one thing in process of adjustment. The country has been confronted as far as the present year is concerned with an almost insurmountable difficulty. War debts must be paid, of course, and shall be paid. They are paid with moneys which must be raised. There is no faucet that can be turned on that the billions may flow therefrom. From the wealth of the country and the earnings of the people must come the payments. These payments must come, however, in a way to work no undue hardship in the paying, and most certainly in a way that shall not destroy the initiative and earning power itself of the labor or the wealth which must make the payments. There must and of course will be a refunding of the entire war debt on a proper basis, and it must be spread over a great number of years. There is no reason why the present generation should bear the whole burden of a war fought for all posterity and that must not be. Taxes which kill initiative must and will be repealed and steps are being taken as rapidly as possible to that end. It is the idea of those carrying the largest responsibility that for the immediate present the method of raising revenue can probably not be fundamentally changed, but that there shall be a readjustment of that method providing new and lower rates, with the repeal of abortive features, such as the excess profits tax. After the refunding, which must come in due season, it will no doubt be possible to devise a method for the ultimate collection that will stimulate rather than in any way retard business and spread the burden in right proportions to every man and woman in the country, who are all beneficiaries of the results for which the money was spent.

An element in this final readjustment, of course, too, is the adjustment and evidencing of the amounts due this country from other countries and definite steps are being taken to that end, as you know. It is obviously essential that that be concluded before the program of the ultimate taxation can be consummated.

Personally, I am willing to say most emphatically that this country can not go on, and must not attempt to go on, indefinitely during peace time with either the form or the degree of taxation which was originally devised to meet the emergency of war. Our colossal income taxes were adopted with an eye single to one thing, namely, raising of the money in the largest quantity and with the greatest speed. We took the device of going straight where the money was not taking it ruthlessly. The war tax law was passed in the spirit of the draft act. It partook of the nature of a commandeering of money. In the emergency of war this was proper enough but to keep up this form of taxation in the same degree during peace time would, of course, be intolerant. I believe we should change our system of taxation so as no longer to put such a handicap on saving as the present system does. Between the man who consumes his day's work as fast as he creates it, and on the other hand, the man who practices self-denial and saves part of his day's work and puts it in savings banks, in life insurance policies or in other forms of investment.—between those two men I say it is the business of wise government to tax the former rather than the latter.

Incentive To Save.

Our present system of taxation destroys the incentive to save. I have seen compilations of statistics made up by life insurance companies which show that out of one hundred men, eighty-four arrive at the age of sixty-five dependent upon their relatives, and that only sixteen out of the one hundred, when they reach the age of sixty-five, have accumulated a competence sufficient to support them. Now, I point out to you that if this has been the experience of life insurance companies over past decades, the future will show even more distressing results, assuming that we continue a form of taxation which makes saving or accumulation difficult. Into whatever was the situation before, the present excessive income tax has introduced a differential of anywhere from four per cent. to sixty per cent., working against the man who is trying to accumulate a competence. This must not be. It should be the business of the government to make the accumulation of a competence less difficult. To make it more difficult is a perversion of government. A thrifty people is the most stable people in the world. We can not, as I have stated, change this form of taxation with a wave of either the executive or legislative hand. The treasury department I understand, has estimated that it would take five months to accommodate itself to any considerable change of method. The time is too short and the government's need of money too great to turn around immediately in this regard, but I express the hope and expectation that soon we shall be able to change our system of taxation so as to raise less of our revenue through burdensome income taxes and more of it through some other form of direct tax on the production or consumption of goods.

Referring to the other phase of the activity at Washington peculiarly economic—the tariff. To thoughtful men there must be approval of a certain hesitation and disposition to be cautious and a determination to be sure footed in the consideration of this subject. If I were to attempt to express a summing up of the present state of mind of congress and thoughtful men about the tariff, it would seem to me that it amounts to a feeling that the present year is not a good one in which to write a permanent tariff bill to last for many years to come. Conditions throughout the world are too chaotic to be able to foretell exactly what is needed. The very basic condition on which a tariff is built, namely the cost of manufacturing in various European countries with relation to our own cost of manufacture and the value of the currency of the various European countries with relation to the value of our own currency is at the present moment as fluctuating as quicksand and as unforeseeable in the future as the weather. A dependable tariff built upon such a foundation is difficult, of course. It has been thought by many that we could overcome these handicaps by a device which we called American Valuation and which provided that all customs duties should be estimated upon the value of goods at the time when they arrive in the United States and in terms of American money. Looking carefully into this, it has been thought that this device might not overcome the handicap and further might have a boomerang effect on our own interests. The end of it has been that we have appropriated $100,000 to investigate this device and otherwise determine what might be done to help us toward writing a permanent tariff. These conditions of fluctuation and instability which make the writing of a permanent tariff so difficult at the moment may in some measure be relieved after the disarmament conference has taken place and we have accomplished steps which the president has in mind for the adjustment of our international relations.

Rail Affairs.

The matter of legislation to relieve the railroads and the earnest purpose of the executive in that regard, and his belief in the consequent certain renewed employment of labor are all well known to the country, and this and other similar salutary legislation may be expected as rapidly as possible.

All together, we look to the future with great hope. The fact is of course, that there is ahead the greatest era of expansion and prosperity the world has ever seen. Every one knows this, and the only question discussed is when it will start. There is a lot of business that is really sick, still staggering with the shell shock of war and the debauch of extravagance, but there is a good deal more that is merely malingering. I have full appreciation of the difficulties, but I have no use for commercial slackers. We are not in a period of hard times coming. We are in a period of soft times going. Prosperity is coming—it's time to go out and meet it. I cry continually for the common sense of courage and confidence, and I declare again and shall continue to insist that we have less "Thou shalt not" and more of "Come on, let's go."

It is a great country. I have been about a good deal of late. You have been up and down your stairway at home 100,000 times, but you can't tell the number of its steps. Yet you can send a man there once to count the steps, and he is a better witness as to the number of steps than you are. I have been out in late months all over and I have counted the steps. The manhood and womanhood of America is sound. A little while before election I got off a train at Bangor, Maine, and the porter, handling a pretty large bag which I carry, said, "How'd do, Mr. Hays." I was pleased, and I looked at him in surprise. He said, "Yes, I know you. I put this grip off the train the other day at Albuquerque, New Mexico."

I have counted the steps, and the manhood and womanhood of America is sound. Everywhere, everywhere is the spirit of America; everywhere, everywhere, is in the manhood and womanhood of this republic. Often, in various places we could take walks on Sunday, when people are really more nearly as they are, and just see folks everywhere, and everywhere were the churches, everywhere the school houses, everywhere the fathers and mothers walking to worship with the children romping ahead with their little starched dresses and little pink ribbons, everywhere the same look ahead, everywhere the same evidence of hope and the same aspirations, practicing the faith of the fathers—all reaching upward, upward all of them, upward to the same God. All good, all ahead, all up, and up, and up. I tell you the manhood and womanhood of America is sound. It is a great, great country. And it is all ahead of us.

No exigency however serious will present to this nation an insurmountable crisis. Every problem is solvable. Readjustment demands the best there is in us as a nation mentally and spiritually. We shall adhere to the true clear thing and never abandon our high ideals. This nation is a success; it is still the hope of the world; it must be made a yet greater place for the sons of men.

Voice of Experience.

Now in conclusion. Let all well wishers of good government, all those who love their country and its institutions, listen now for a moment. Listen with eyes aloft, listen to the voice of experience and the call of inspiration from the Sprit of America which was Washington and Lincoln—listen and hear from them the call "Carry on, Americans!"

Carry on!" "Carry on" Carry on, now against the Foes of our Own Household as you fought at Valley Forge at the Argonne and at Chateau Thierry. 'Carry on!" 'Carry on!" Find disloyalty, if there be disloyalty and scotch it, find dishonesty if there be dishonesty and crush it, find the right and cleave unto it. Keep your eyes ahead, Americans but keep your feet on solid ground. Find the reason for discontent and meet it squarely, correct the cause where there there is a cause and mercilessly destroy the excuse where it is an excuse only. Find exact justice and demand it—demand it for all men and require it from all men. Remember the stuff you are made of, Americans! Remember the heritage which is yours. The stress of late days has strained all overmuch. Be patient with one another—each one is equally responsible. Stop and look within. Look each one to your own industry and thrift. Look to your own conscience and moral responsibility. In the whirl of passing storm seize upon common sense and holding fast reach for others who may be hurled by. Yes, forget not the others who are about you. It is as dangerous now as it was just outside the walls of Eden to ask in surprise "Am I my brothers keeper?" Remember, we shall go up or we shall go down together. The great power which is the Sprit of America must not tolerate any attempt to array class against class section against section or sect against sect. Guard against this as you would against a pestilence, the nation has no greater enemy than one who would thus divide the country against itself. Mere agitation and mere motion are not progress. The vicious circle is not the shortest distance between honest effort and highest reward. Remember that one man is only better than another when he behaves himself better. Give every well-behaved man his equality of opportunity and require from him his full share of accountability. Live and let live is not enough—we must live and help live—and as you live and help live, find always exact justice and eforce it.

And as we go about our affairs let us keep our eyes ahead—and keep our eyes up—for we will need to keep our eyes—on Him

From out whose hand
The centuries fall like grains of sand

CITIZENS ARE FIGHTING FIRE

Seeking To Prevent Destruction of Several Towns.

FOREST FIRES SPREAD IN MINNESOTA TODAY

Fate of Number of Places Depende Largely on Caprice of Winds Blowing.

McGrath, Minn., Sept. 7.—Desperate battles are being fought today, by state troops and hundreds of citizens to prevent the destruction of a half-dozen towns and hamlets in this district by forest fires. The fate of several towns depends, according to word from the fire lines early today, on the caprices of the wind.

Arthyde, Johnsdale and Hillman are three towns where a last-ditch fight is being made. Guardsmen and citizens were holding their own despite a stiff wind, early today and in most places the fires were under control. Should the wind increase in velocity, it was declared, there would be little hope of saving Arthyde.

In the Solana region, according to reports received here, twenty families are endangered by flames that now cover a five-mile front. A force of 300 fire fighters is building backfires in hope of checking the conflagration.

Refugees by the hundred are pouring into McGrath today and relief agencies already are taxed to the utmost to care for those made homeless by the fires. Whole families have been made homeless and penniless by the destruction of the dwellings.

CITY IN BRIEF

Tires Taken from Auto—Mrs. J. D. Walker, residing on the Smeltzer road, reported to the police this morning that some person stole four tires off her automobile, Tuesday night. She furnished the department a description of the stolen property.

Moves Its Plant—The Diamond Rubber company has moved from the Smith building on Edwards street to the Jones building in Oakland Heights, just west of Davids street. The company, which opened its factory here about June 15, is engaged in the manufacture of toy balloons and rubber novelties.

Leaves Make Rails Slippery—Pretty smooth for the street car motormen, or a least that's what they say. Also don't be surprised if the street car isn't able to stop for you just at the place it should. The recent fall of leaves has made it difficult to stop a car quickly on account of slipping of the wheels.

Breaks into Armory—Captain G. V. Paschall, of Howitzer company, reported to the police Tuesday afternoon that some one broke into the armory and stole nine shirts, six hats, four overcoats, four pairs of shoes and six pairs of leggings. The suspect was seen by an officer to board an eastbound freight Tuesday afternoon.

Jacoby As Host — J. Wilbur Jacoby is to entertain a party of some fifty business men, including all the directors of the chamber of commerce, at a picnic at his farm near the Scioto power plant Friday afternoon. Golf practice and horseshoe pitching will form a part of the program and there will be a lunch served at 5:30 o'clock. The picnic is to start at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Exchange Record Store—A branch of the Phonograph Record Exchange company of America will be opened in this city Thursday and will be in charge of C. E. Kellogg, No. 295½ west Center street. This concern is establishing branch shops in every county throughout the United States. The object of these exchange stores is to give the public an opportunity to trade the records they are tired of for other records.

St. Mary's School Opens—A high mass at 9 o'clock preceded the assembly of St. Mary's parochial school which opened this morning with a good attendance. Rev. Joseph M. Denning, pastor of St Mary's church, addressed the students in their rooms following assembly. The morning was given to class placements registration and the securing of books, after which school was dismissed for the day. The regular sessions will begin Thursday morning.

Attending Manifield Reunion—Mr and Mrs G W Williams, Mrs Irene Beerbower and Christopher Fies are in Mansfield today attending the reunion of Sherman's brigade. The reunion will continue over tomorrow and they will not return until then. Schiller Fogelson is also in Mansfield attending the reunion of the 102d regiment, O. V. I., which is being held in the Memorial hall where the Sherman brigade reunion is being held. Mr. Fogelson is the only member of his regiment residing in this county.

Attend Funeral at Wharton—Mr. and Mrs. William R. Martin and David Johnson were called to Wharton Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Cyrus Waters, who died suddenly at her home in Hillsdale, Michigan. She was about sixty-eight years old and was known here having visited relatives a number of times. She was the grandmother of Mr. Johnson and an aunt of W. R. Martin. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the M. E. church and burial was made in the Wharton cemetery.

Automobiles Collide— The automobiles of Richard A. Lau, of Hane avenue, and Richard Barnhart, of south State street, were both damaged in a collision at the corner of Mt. Vernon avenue and Vine street, about 5:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, but no one was injured. Mr. Lau and his wife were driving east on Church street and were just turning to go east on Mt. Vernon avenue when Mr. Barnhart drove off Mt Vernon avenue and turned to go south on Vine street. The rear fender on the right side was broken on the Barnhart car and the front fender and the front axle of the Lau car were bent.

WAR OR PEACE FOR IRELAND

from London with the exception of Marquis Curson, who is ill and as they assembled it was predicted freely that an ultimatum might be sent to the Sinn Fein.

Eamonn de Valera is still breathing defiance against England, as was shown by his Dublin statement of Tuesday, when he attacked the British proposals and challenged the government to send an ultimatum to Dublin.

The absence of conciliation on the part of the Sinn Fein chief has not eased the path of the British deliberation and it was reported that the cabinet meeting might last until tomorrow.

A reply to de Valera's note of last Thursday will be drafted before the meeting breaks up. That Premier Lloyd George was determined upon decisive action and contemplated a decision of grave importance was indicated by the fact that he planned to motor to Moyhall to consult with King George on the Irish situation.

The premier was in informal consultation with British civil and military officials, late Tuesday, when there was a preliminary canvass of the late developments.

The present cabinet meeting is without precedent in the history of British statesmanship.

Never before has the cabinet been summoned so far away London for a conference. In addition to the British cabinet members, several Sinn Fein leaders are reported to be at Inverness, although they will not be in communication with the English statesmen.

NOTICE SERVED ON ASSEMBLY

Bolivia then Chile can no longer participate in the activities of this assembly," said Senor Edwards. "If the league considers revision of the Bolivian treaty, Germany may later demand revision of the treaty of Versailles. I ask that the assembly take an immediate vote upon the matter."

Senor Edwards denied that Bolivia is completely cut off from the sea.

"Chile allows Bolivia to make shipments to and from the sea," said the Chilean delegate. "Chile even allows munitions to pass which may be used against our own country, later. I appeal to Bolivia to withdraw her demand."

Asked if there was any possibility of Canada withdrawing from the league, Mr. Doherty said: "That is a thing that can not be discussed. Canada's objections to article 10 are equally strong and perhaps stronger than those of the United States. Parliament only voted to enter the league hoping that we would succeed in killing article 10, and make other changes in the covenant.

"I have heard two reasons why the article in question should be retained both from French sources. The first is that France does not want the covenant disturbed because the treaty of Versailles is interwoven so closely with it. Second, if the article is retained, it will give the league something with which it may be able to bargain in the future with the United States, to get the United States to enter.

"Both arguments are most undignified. If the article is wrong and I think that most members so believe, it should be killed.

"I do not for a minute consider that a great nation like the United States would descend to bargaining to enter the league of nations. Furthermore, the moment we begin logrolling with the United States we admit the weakness of the league. Canada is watching the league's action on this point very closely. She knows she is in no danger of attack from her great neighbor to the south and does not see why she should be pledged to peace among nations to those like the Balkans which are constantly going to war."

COMMITTEE NAMED FOR MARION'S CENTENNIAL

T. R. Allen, Great-Grandson of Eber Baker, a Member.

THIRTY-FIVE OTHERS ON THIS COMMITTEE

Luncheon at Country Club Today, When Plans for Celebration Are Taken Up.

Appointment of a committee of thirty-six to arrange for the celebration of Marion's centennial next year was made at the regular monthly meeting of the Marion Chamber of Commerce today at noon at the Marion club house. The board held a luncheon-meeting and adjourned to meet again next Tuesday noon at the club-house.

Action of the board was taken on the recommendation of a special centennial committee appointed by the board some time ago. This committee recommended that a committee of thirty or more citizens representing all civic activities be named to arrange for the centennial observance.

Suggestion Adopted.

This suggestion was adopted by the board with the understanding that the original three members from the chamber of commerce be members of the larger committee. Today it was decided that the centennial committee will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the office of the chamber of commerce to organize and begin the preliminary work for the observance. The original chamber of commerce committee was composed of J. W. Jacoby, O. G. Briggs and George B. Knapp. Mr. Knapp's request that he be excused from service on the larger committee was acceded to by the board.

Great-Grandson of Founder.

One of the members of the centennial committee, Tracy R. Allen, is a great-grandson of Eber Baker, the founder of Marion and the man who was largely responsible for the location of the county seat in this city. Mr. Baker came to Marion March 4, 1822. The town was laid out and the boundaries defined in 1820 and Mr. Baker and Alexander Holmes laid out the village of Marion. The plat was accepted April 3, 1822.

A decision as to the time of year for the centennial celebration has not been decided and will be one of the first questions to be determined by the new committee. While April 3 will be the anniversary of the acceptance of the plat of the village, it is probable that the celebration will not be held until after because of the objection raised by some on account of the weather.

The period of time which the celebration will cover is another question for the committee to determine at the outset. It is the intention to invite President Harding to Marion to take part in the exercises for at least one day.

Here Is Committee.

REPUBLICANS MAKING GOOD

out the world. We shall be greatly aided in a policy of progressively reducing expenditure by the budget law, Republican in origin, design, enactment and execution.

"I do not hesitate to say that in ordinary times it alone would have been considered a highly creditable chief product of a year's legislative program. Yet in a time of such legislative activity as the present it is only one among many measures of the first importance to be enacted.

"It was quickly followed by the enactment of the immigration law, calculated both to limit the inflow of population during a period of depression and to hasten the day when we may effect the true Americanization of all newcomers to our shores.

"The series of measures looking to the amelioration of conditions in the great agricultural industries would in other times have constituted a striking legislative product of a year's session. These include the law for control of the packing industry, the act for the regulation of grain exchanges, and the law for the extension of credits to foreigners through the War Finance corporation to enable them to carry their crops until the markets will absorb them.

"The establishment of a veterans bureau insures consummation of those reforms in caring for our disabled men, which were inaugurated by executive order. We have established peace and are seeking to establish the generous production and profitable exchange of foodstuffs and commodities under the conditions of peace and corollary assurance of good wages and general employment."

IN COMMON PLEAS

Another Strike Out Motion.

A motion to require the plaintiff to strike out certain alleged immaterial matter and make her petition definite and certain was filed in the common pleas court today in the $50,000 suit of Anna L. Busch, as administratrix of the estate of Charles L. Busch, against the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric company. The motion was filed through Attorney W P Moloney.

Judge Calls Docket.

Judge Grant E Mouser this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the common pleas court called the docket for the assignment of cases for the September term of court.

To Be Decided Next Week.

Injuction suits to restrain the county treasurer and city from collecting special assessments for pavements are to be decided in the common pleas court by Judge Grant E. Mouser after the hearing of two of the cases next Monday.

Two of the suits brought by the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad company were heard by Judge Mouser Tuesday afternoon. Two others, brought by Millard Hunt and Rosa Sedazzari, have been set for hearing next Monday. A fifth suit, instituted by the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad company, was heard some time ago and a decision in this case will be given when the others are determined.

WILLIAM WHITE STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE TODAY

Hip Dislocated and Cut in Back of Head.

William White, of near McGuffey, had his left hip dislocated, received a cut in the back of his head and had his right hand bruised when he was struck by an automobile driven by F. J. Schneider, of south Prospect street about 11 o'clock today on west Mill street.

Mr. White was walking along the track and stepped in front of the car driven by Mr. Schneider when he turned to go on the sidewalk Mr. Schneider took the man to the City hospital. He is about forty-four years old and came to Marion from Mansfield.

The Folly of Cheating Nature

Many people get the idea that they can keep their nerves on edge and their digestion upset year after year, and "get away with it." They sleep only half as much as they should—and never get properly and thoroughly rested.

If you tire out easily, if you are getting pale and anemic, if your food doesn't digest as it should, would it not be well to stop and consider whether coffee or tea is having its effect on you?

The caffeine and thein found in coffee and tea are drugs, as any doctor can tell you. Is it any wonder that the steady use of these drugs sometimes causes serious damage?

If you really want to be fair with yourself, and give yourself the opportunity you deserve in order to do your best work, make up your mind to quit coffee and tea for awhile—and drink delicious, appetizing Postum instead.

Postum permits sound, refreshing sleep which builds strength, energy and endurance.

Order Postum from your Grocer today. Drink this hot, refreshing beverage in place of tea or coffee for 10 days and see what a wonderful difference it will make in the way you feel.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

to undertake to refer in a general way to what the administration has done to restore tranquility after the angry turbulence of the war, to insure stability after the chaos of war's aftermath, and to bring the country back to normal conditions.

It is now a little over a year and a month since Mr. Harding in accepting the nomination for the presidency, said that the keynote of his purpose and policy, if elected, would be to bring about a "return to normalcy." It is just six months since his inauguration gave him the opportunity to redeem that promise; and it would be my purpose tonight briefly to refer to what has been done and to indicate some things planned for the future

It had been the president's wish, as you know, to be here in person, and there is no part of my message to you more urgent than to convey to you his regret at being prevented from addressing a body of men whom he described to me as "one of the finest and most substantial groups of business men in the country." But if you are deprived of the president's presence you have one compensating advantage. In one important particular I am better qualified to give an account of the administration's stewardship than the president himself He, the most modest and self-effacing of men, would never tell the part that his personality has played I can.

State of Mind.

In its more obvious sense, normalcy in a country is a condition which can be expressed in concrete facts and figures. But in a larger and more important sense though a more subtle one, normalcy is a phychological condition It is a violation of the proprieties for me state of mind At any time and under any presidency, the state of mind of the country is largely influenced by the state of mind of the man in the White House. Placed in so high and so conspicuous a station, emanations from his personality radiate throughout the country, and affect or create the state of mind of the country. The White House is indeed, "the biggest pulpit in the country." From the man in the White House the country gets much of the inspiration of its own moods The country is colored by his personality. What he does, what he thinks, what he feels, whatever are the natural and unconscious emanations from his personality, set the key of the country's temper Intangible and imponderable though this is, it is one of the presidency's most important functions Day by day, the country "senses" the qualities of the man in the White House, and if they are qualities that appeal to the good of the common mass of men, the country tends to reflect them, and take them on as its own

In this present time, the operation of one of those higher laws that work for the world's good has brought to the White House exactly the personality that was needed to lead the country away from the turbulent passions of war back to the normal human nature of peace If you, throughout the country, have been able to "sense" the curing and restorative qualities of President Harding's personality much more vividly do we, who serve in contact with him, appreciate him as one whose greatest concern is justice and good faith, who cures excitement with serenity who meets passion with gentleness, who conquers anger with tolerance, who overcomes violence with patience, who shames greed with unselfishness, whose test for every decision is "What does good faith call on us to do?" whose approach to every problem is: "Which of these alternatives is just?"

It is these qualities of President Harding's personality, flowing out from him steadily day by day, that have the largest part in bringing America to that equibility which is his own No country guided by such a man with such a spirit could fail to come quickly to equilibrium, and lead forward to the higher levels of idealism just ahead of us

Now it just happens that the biggest concrete achievement of the present administration is one that flows directly from the qualities of President Harding's personality that I have described We have just made peace with Germany That peace in itself is a milestone in our history But in its implications, in the larger program of which this German peace is a detail and a step in the retracing of the hard path back to normal conditions, it is vastly more important than one will realize, unless familiar with its working out

German Peace.

First note the spirit in which the country at large and the senate receive the German peace When President Harding was entrusted with the management of our foreign affairs and of the country as a whole, he found a condition in which most of our domestic politics expressed itself in terms of anger, controversy and factionalism The political news from Washington for two years had been described in military terms The headline over the Washington dispatches in the newspapers sounded like a communique from the front It was a prolonged contest, sometimes siege sometimes battle, and occasionally armistice between the White House and Senate. It expressed itself in the vocabulary of ultimatums, of minimum demands and maximum demands, of strong reservations, weak reservations and no reservations. Not only did this atmosphere of belligerency and contention color the relations of the White House and the Senate; the same atmosphere extended within the Senate, and the news of the proceedings of that body was to put to our foreign relations expressed itself in such military terms as "irreconcilables" and "bitter enders" and "battalion of death" And in the country acrimony prevailed with cross currents churning public opinion into a near pandemonium

It is the difference between this spirit in the management of our foreign affairs, and the atmosphere in which the present treaty is received by the Senate and the country, to which I would call your attention This difference is due to the president's personality and it is this change which constitutes a long and fundamental spiritual step in the return to normalcy in the conduct of our public affairs It flows from the qualities of Mr. Harding's mind and heart and expresses itself in patience, tolerance and the spirit of mutual accommodation in his relations with men The spirit not only expedites the public business but guarantees that that business is going to be carried on with the wisdom that comes from calmness, and without the mistakes that arise from rancor and bickering When men are calm, they are impersonal; when they are hungry they think of themselves In controversy men fall into pride of opinion and cling to their own point of view, in calmness they think of the impersonal object of their mutual aim—of the common good of all The change of spirit which President Harding's personality has introduced into the conduct of the public business will have a more beneficial effect than anything that can be set down in figures.

Next let me call your attention to some of the things which will flow from this German peace, the things to which the ratification of it will open the door Just as soon as this peace is ratified we will be able to lift and throw away a mass of vexatious and burdensome restrictions imposed by a state of war, which oppress and irritate business and restrict us in the exercise of our constitutional liberties All this will now end We shall get rid of "shall nots", and be free indeed to say "Come on! Let's go" With the ratification of the treaty there will be a proclamation of peace which will fix formally the date of the ending of the war and enable us to pass to normal peace-time conditions.

Great and Fruitful.

These things are great and fruitful of promise But there is more The German treaty does not stand alone. It is in President Harding's program merely one step in a process of which the next step is immediately in sight On the same day that President Harding signed the German peace, he received from the governments of Great Britain and Japan acceptances to the invitations he had extended to attend in Washington on November 11, a conference for the limitation of armaments I can not go into the details of what is proposed to be done at that conference It is my opinion that the meeting possesses more potentiality for good for mankind than any single event in the last 1921 years And in the confidence of deep coviction I predict that the forces working for its successful consummation, guided by this same great mind and sympathetic heart working the miracles for good in this country, and inspired by his spirit, will bring from the conference a result which will be recognized as the most important meeting of men's minds in all history and the most fruitful upward step taken by the world since the day Christ first preached "Peace on earth, good will toward men"

Life insurance companies and all those interested in them are concerned in the drive of the administration for efficiency and economy in government and I would refer briefly to some specific accomplishments made in that direction As life insurance men, you will be more interested than most men in these efforts because by the quality of mind which has brought you to the life insurance business you appreciate saving and economy and by the nature of your business experience you will understand the mechanism of the steps we have taken.

There is one illustration in our effort for governmental good housekeeping that must especially appeal to your profession. The government has a life insurance business In the vast affairs that the administration carries on, this life insurance is but one detail By the Sweet bill, it is now an independent establishment and is indeed an immense business institution I have heard it described as one of the five biggest life insurance companies of the country. How far this is true you can quickly estimate. The figures show that there are nearly $4,000,000,000 of government insurance in force. It has paid out in allotments and allowances just under $600,000,000. The compensation and insurance claims filed under it number over $40,000, of which $30,000 claims have been adjudicated at an expenditure of $500,000,000. I would not in any sense be understood as criticising the situation when this administration took hold of the government. The war risk bureau had been organized and

SOCIETY

With women's organizations of the city resuming activities within the next few weeks, club life will take on an enlivening aspect after the summer lull. This will be refreshing and eagerly awaited by all of the active groups, especially those who have been summering in town and for whom the quiet days have been quite monotonous.

During the present and coming month, the various organizations will show signs of awakening interest in various lines of activity pursued by each organization as the officers take the helm and start their plans for a busy season.

Departures from the usual routine of occupation will feature the calendar for many clubs which are devoting their time and attentions to many useful lines of endeavor in addition to the primary object which they strive annually to maintain.

With the broadening of the scope of pursuits, the combined club activities this year promise to become more forceful than in preceding years.

Three Remarkable Days Have Convinced Everyone That This Is The Most Wonderful Sale of Suits Which Has Ever Been Conducted in the City-

Two Splendid Groups—Two Wonderful Prices

$38 and $50

Exclusive as to Style—Created from Charming New Fall Fabrics— Beautifully Trimmed with Luxurious Furs or Gorgeously Embroidered

In just three days' time the news of this wonderful sale has convinced all Marion that this is the greatest sale of its kind ever held in the city.

Ladies have come from far and wide just to take advantage of this notable occasion. One customer made the remark that she had saved more than her expenses on the purchase of her suit. Others have exclaimed with delight about the unusual values which are to be found.

We invite you to come early, as the earlier you come, the better and bigger your choice will be.

At $50: We are displaying suits in the charming new Fall materials of Duvet, Veldyne, Panvelaine, Tricotine, etc., in the popular shades of brown and blue. Many of them are fur trimmed and others are handsomely embroidered.

At $38: The materials are Moussyne, Moussetyne, Gerone, Alonzo and other popular Fall fabrics. These also show trimmings of real Mole, Beaver, Blue Wolf and Squirrel.

Every suit is the season's newest design.

(Downstairs Store)

The Most Beautiful Suits Ever Sold in Marion at Such a Low Price of $25.00

The announcement of this wonderful Suit Sale in our popular Down-Stairs Store has certainly caused much enthusiasm and eager buying by the women of Marion and surrounding vicinity.

You never expected to find such beautiful Suits as these at anything like this price. In all of our experience we never remember selling better or more attractive models at the low price of $25.

We can consider ourselves extremely fortunate in securing this wonderful collection to offer during this event.

The materials are Duvet de Laine, Moussyne, Moussetyne, Veldyne, Panvelaine, Tricotine as well as many other new Fall fabrics.

The styles are the newest—the graceful long lines. You will see trimmings of Wolf, Beaver, Squirrel and other charming furs, as well as beautifully embroidered models, and some are trimmed with irridescent beads.

Every suit is one that bespeaks satisfaction to its wearer.

Special Offering of Charming New Fall Blouses 3 Special Groups

$3.95 $5.95 $7.50

$3.95 $5.95 $7.50

Pleasant surprises await those women who seek these charming new overblouses which Fashion sponsers for dressy Fall wear.

They may be seen here in many variations of styles. Some have high collars, others are V-neck, while still others owe their becomingness to the Dutch collar effect.

Sleeves also vary from the very long to the three-quarter lengths. For dress occasions charming shades of Mocha, Canard, Mohawk, Navy, Rust, Scarlet and many other pretty colorings are all the rage; for utility we show flesh and white.

Their materials are mostly georgette crepe, while their trimmings are almost too numerous to mention. One may see beading, silk and wool embroidering, the new Chromite trimming and just lots of other pretty new finishing touches.

McGINNIS POST UNVEILS PICTURE OF WAR HERO

In Whose Honor Local Post Is Named.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR ARMISTICE DAY HERE

Merchants Will Be Asked To Close Their Stores—Delegates for Convention.

An enlarged picture of George McGinnis, the first Marion county soldier to die in the World war and in whose honor the local legion post was named, was unveiled in the club rooms of McGinnis Post, No. 162 American Legion, at the close of the regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Colonel George B. Christian unveiled the picture and made the speech of presentation. The enlargement is from a photograph in civilian clothes and the uniform was substituted by the photographer. Mr. McGinnis was only nineteen years old when he died May 19,

GEORGE M'GINNIS

1918. He was a son of Mrs. Mary McGinnis, of No. 520 Park street.

Preliminary arrangements for an Armistice day celebration and a vaudeville show for the purpose of raising finance for the post for the remainder of the year were made at the meeting.

Armistice Day Celebration.

A committee of ten is to be appointed, with Gilbert V. Paschall as chairman, to arrange for the Armistice day observance. A military parade is to be held during the day and in the evening there will be a military ball for veterans of all wars. The place for holding the ball has not been determined.

It is the intention of the committee to request all business houses to close on Armistice day and if it is impossible to close all day, a request will be made that the places of business close for one hour from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock on the morning of November 11.

For the purpose of securing finances for the post until the time for payment of the membership dues, a vaudeville show is to be staged by the legion during the month of October. It is planned to stage even a better bill than the one put on by the post last year.

State Convention Delegates.

Delegates to the state convention at Toledo September 26 and 27 were elected. O. V. Paschall, George T. Geran, Lloyd B. Garver, Robert E. White and Willis Spaulding were named delegates and the alternates are J. W. Lucellen, Ralph Horseman, E. O. Thomas, Craig M. Rodgers and Theodore V. DeBauernfeind.

Tuesday evening's meeting was a father-son gathering and a large number of the fathers of the veterans attended and made short talks. Lunch was served after the session.

FUNERALS

Devenney Funeral.

The funeral of Sylvan L. J. Devenney was held from the home on Park boulevard this morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. C. L. Allenbaugh officiating. The services were in charge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Interment was made in the Marion cemetery.

A Farewell Dinner.

Mrs. David Lowery, of Prospect, entertained with a farewell dinner, Sunday, in honor of Harry Bosley, of Bakersfield, California. Among those from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bowen and Mrs. Joseph Cunningham and family, of Radnor; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lowery and family of Caledonia; Mrs. Kate Curtain, of Lewis Center; James Bosley, of Shiloh.

We note that the Quaker City proposes to take a vote and decide whether it is wet or dry. We can see the proposition that far, but what we can not understand is where it is going to get no matter which side wins.

Commenting on the fact that Reisali, having become too fat to fight, plans to surrender, a paragrapher points out that herein we may get a tip to bring about the peace of the world. But if all of us became too fat to fight, wouldn't we be suffering a like disability regarding work?

As a matter of fact it is probably better to be an optimist and be wrong that be a pessimist and be right.—Bucyrus Telegraph.

That's the kind of talk that starts real business revivals. Let the good work go on.

This old world of ours is full of accommodating people, including those who save us the trouble of reading the sub-titles of the movie films without expecting even so much as a "thank you."

The soviet theory was that the tillers of the soil would keep on producing under the new order of things just the same as they did under the old, but it fell down. The incentive to accumulate, having been removed, the tillers of the soil produced only enough for their own needs and let it go at that.

If Hudson Maxim set up the theory of relativity away back in 1889, what business had Einstein to come over and spring a moth-eaten antique on us as something positively new?

One great difficulty in arriving at the present wet-or-dry feeling in the country is that the most talking is always done by the side desirous of a change.

LOOKS LIKE A SHIPPING COMBINE.

"Freedom of the seas" may become a live subject once more, for now comes the United States shipping board with a package of admonitory words to British shipping authorities that is nothing short of a challenge. This is, of course, no direct question of our freedom to sail the seas; the trouble is that the British seem to have devised a scheme to prevent American ships from employing that right to advantage with respect to certain cargoes. It seems clear that freedom of the seas is an empty thing if it is still possible for one nation to discriminate against another in the getting of business.

As revealed by the news of the "serving of notice" on the British, the latter have adopted regulations covering contracts for carrying Egyptian cotton from Alexandria to the United Kingdom and the United States that amount to unfair treatment of American vessels. But this is only the "test" case. We gather that there is a combination of shipping interests almost worldwide in extent which refuses to recognize the United States shipping board as a factor in making decisions covering ocean transportation. In other words, the ancient "there is no sentiment in business" has been brought forth and set to work. The others are against the newcomer, which is us, in the shipping trade. We are not to be allowed to take cargoes of Egyptian cotton on favorable terms, that is on terms as favorable as those accorded to British ships, and, presumably, those under some other flags.

There may be no "open market" or rate war, as threatened by the shipping board, in case its just grievance is not remedied. The board, we may be sure, will be reluctant to invoke the retaliatory measures authorized in the Jones shipping act. But it is necessary to let the world know that America will stand for her rights and that she has means of enforcing them. The shipping board has taken the proper preliminary steps.

GETTING THE NEWS IN MONTSERRAT.

Did a mischievous little imp of Satan ever stand where you couldn't see him, and flash the sun's light from a mirror into your face? Aha! You used to play that game yourself, did you? Then you would be right at home in the island of Montserrat, in the West Indies.

The 10,000 inhabitants of Montserrat get all their tidings from the outside world by the flashing of mirrors from the island of Antigua, twenty-seven miles away. The wireless and cable do not touch this mountainous and isolated pinpoint on the map. Mail-boats are infrequent. The natives must depend almost entirely upon the heliograph—an instrument used extensively before the telegraph was invented, which means "writing with the sun."

The messages are flashed from a mirror headed into the rays of the sun. The mirror operates from side to side, and in that way the dots and dashes as they are flashed are "picked out" and formed into words and sentences. The United States navy still uses a similar system for some signaling work.

During the war Montserrat was forbidden the use of the heliograph. Too many submarines were lurking in West Indian waters. Now the ban has been lifted, and Montserrat is again in touch with the world. Life there, as one may gather, isn't as strenuous as on the North American mainland, where every minute counts. Most of the inhabitants are negroes, and their principal occupation is raising sugar and producing lime juice.

We note that quite a number of our exchanges are citing Marion's tax rate as an argument that people should not move to Marion. Marion's pull must be strong when it is necessary to offer arguments to overcome it.

Dayton is again talking about abandoning her city manager plan for the federal. Doesn't that sound a lot like knocking the very foundation from under the city manager enthusiasts?

Even after Missouri has constructed $30,000,000 worth of good roads as she plans, it is not impossible that we will meet some people from that state who will "have to be shown."

There's another advantage in being a plain, every-day paragrapher; all the reformers in the land and the followers of this or that fad aren't forever asking you to give up this or that which adds to the batting average of the joy of living.

Some people simply will not learn, among them being those who figure that they do not pay taxes simply because they return no property for taxation.

An exchange says the most unsatisfactory thing about the automatic telephone is that you can't take out vengeance on the hello girl. Still, people will forget themselves at times and claim that they have been "given" the wrong number.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

[Chicago News.]

Why does the last match invariably fail to ignite?

Temptation is the balance in which character is weighed.

Usually it's the promising young man that gets into debt.

The man who is looking for trouble does not have to advertise for it.

The difference between repartee and impudence is in the size of the speaker.

Some folk are kept in the dark in order to keep them from bringing things to light.

A man may be able to argue successfully with a woman but it never does any good.

When a mother tells a bachelor about a cute thing her baby did he never says just what he thinks.

Some husbands never think of telling their wives anything until after they have found it out for themselves.

A girl should never throw away her old slippers, they may be handy at her wedding—and much handier in after years.

Donkeys and facts are stubborn things.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By Dr. James Ball Naylor.]

MARRIAGE.

Marriage, like life, is largely what we make it.

Spenser has said of the state of matrimony:

"From that day forth, in peace and joyous bliss,
They lived together long without debate;
Nor private jars, nor spite of enemies,
Could shake the safe assurance of their state."

But Byron has ventured the opinion:

"Marriage, from love, like vinegar from wine—
A sad, sour, sober beverage—by time
Is sharpened from its high celestial flavor
Down to a very homely household savor."

Which was right—Spenser or Byron?

Both.

For marriage is largely what the married make it.

Couples should be mated as well as married.

They should be of congenial tempers and tastes.

It makes a difference who marries.

Also, it makes a difference when they marry.

Too, it makes a difference why they marry.

In addition, it makes a difference where persons are married—as to whether they are really married, it appears. Consider the following instances:

Danville, Ill., March 8.—Because they were married on the wrong side of a street, Mr. and Mrs. Alman J. Leneve, of Danville, wedded since 1903, went through a second ceremony at Urbana, to make the wedding legal in Illinois. After obtaining a license in Danville in 1903, to marry Louise Johnson, Leneve decided that the ceremony should be performed in the new home he had fitted up for his bride in the town of State Line, on the Illinois-Indiana border. The house was just over the line in Indiana, but the question of legality of the license did not occur to the Leneves until recently at the marriage of their daughter. Attorneys were consulted—and as a result the second wedding was arranged.

You may be married in Indiana;
But you won't be able to sing hosanna
Forever more, and declare your joy—
If you got the license in Illinois!

* * * * *

SHE CAN'T DO IT.

A woman may be a full citizen now,
A woman may vote today,
But she can't strike a match on the seat of her—well,
A woman ain't built that way.

After all is done and said, after all is granted and accepted, a woman—is just a woman.

There are manifold things she can do; but there are a few she can't do.

A woman may be able to face a ravenous lion unflinchingly; but the bare sight of a mouse scares her into convulsion fits.

She may righteously turn away from sin and vice; but she can't resist the lure of a bargain sale.

She may scorn to be brave; but she can't resist the longing to be beautiful.

Yes, there are some things a woman can't do.

She may ape a man; but she can't be a man.

And here's a little anecdote in support of my assertion.

Mrs. Jarkinson was much perturbed to learn that her nine-year-old hopeful, of the male persuasion, had been engaged in a pitched battle with the bad boy down the street. Therefore, she summoned Horace Montmorency into her presence, to render an accounting.

"Why were you fighting that low-down Jones boy?" she demanded.

"He threw stones at me," Horace explained.

"Well, when that horrid boy threw stones at you, why didn't you come to me and tell me—instead of throwing back at him?"

"Huh?" exclaimed Horace, in almost speechless wonder.

"You heard me!" his mother responded severely.

"Why didn't I come and tell you?"

"Yes."

"Come and tell you that Nig Jones threwed stones at me?"

"Certainly."

"Well, gee-mentlee, mother! What good would it 'ave done to come and tell you that Nig Jones throwed stones at me? You couldn't hit the side of a barn!"

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. E. Center opened a millinery store in the Fisher room, Center and Prospect street.

At a meeting of the senior class of the High school three editors were elected for the High school paper. Frank M. Knapp, editor-in-chief; [illegible] Frank Brown, managing editor; Ed Eckert, athletic editor, Harry Hedges, humorist, and Harry S. Elliott, literary editor.

[illegible] narrowly escaped being run down by a street car as he attempted to cross the tracks at Center and Prospect streets. The horse's head was struck.

George F. Bowers, machinist, and Miss Lydia L. Stone, Richland township, were married.

The Reformed church was completed.

The cadet commandery of the Knights of St. John was booming in membership. Thirty-five applications were received.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

Every man must get to heaven his own way.—Frederick the Great.

Sincerity is the indispensable ground for all conscientiousness, and by consequence, of all heart-felt religion.—Kant.

Thyself and thy belongings
Are not thine own so proper as to waste;
Heaven doth with us as we with torches do,
Not light them for themselves; for if our virtues
Did not go forth of us, 'twere all alike
As if we had them not.
—Shakespeare

Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ.—Paul.

What is most to be feared is that mental lethargy which accepts error rather than seek truth; the lack of vision which fails to recognize truth; the lack of moral purpose to follow the truth when it is seen; and the fear which turns aside or renders powerless the noblest purpose and the finest conception.

One day at a time!
It's a wholesome rhyme!
A good one to live by,
One day at a time.
Helen Hunt Jackson.

I am off of rambos We went down under the stink factory and got the rest of them that we had hid there and put them inside of our shirts and carried them out to the pasture, and when we sot down by the creek and started in to eat them we found out that they was like Bunt, they had been hanging around the stink factory more than was good for them. After the first bite we did not any of us care for any more, and I took my hat and had Banty pick them to me and when I would hit one the cider would splash out of it, and that gave us an idee so we all went out to the cider mill, and we had just got the bung out of a barl and was rolling it over to get some in my hat when the man seen us and chased us away back past the pasture

I was so fear home I went home to dinner and when I had sot down my aut began to sniff with her nose and she sed to me that I must of been playing with Bunt again whose father works in the stink factory but I said that I had not been playing with him any more than any one else so then my mother took a whiff o me and said I had, too, and she made me take the barn pail and a bar of soap and go out to the barn and wash all over and then put my clothes in the pail and wrap the blanket around me and bring them in the house to be boiled and just as I was going out of the barn Younise come in, and she said 'Oh goody! We will play Indian' You give me this blanket and I will be Minnehaha and you can be a warrior," and she grabbed hold of the blanket and give it a pull and almost got it, and all of my clothes was in the pail and I was so scairt and mad at her that I hollered at her so hard it almost tore her head off and sh jumped back and let go of the blanket and I dropped the pail and shun out for the house and went upstairs, and my clothes was not dry till it was time to go for the cows and Younise had went home and I bet she is mad at me or thinks I am mad at her I hope she ain't and don't Seems like school and everything happens to a fella all at once

VEIOCK ON SPORTS

New York, Sept. 7.—Baseball fans of Little Old New York are willing to lay 'em odds, today, that the metropolis will see one-half of the World's series, but they have practically given up hope of monopolizing the big fall classic.

Those who root for the Yanks are elated over the prospects of Miller Huggins' battering clan while among Giant fans gloom is thicker than molasses

That Babe Ruth & Company will either capture the American league pennant by force or have it thrust upon them now seems a certainty.

The Yanks are breezing along, winning here and losing there, but playing better than 700-per-cent. baseball. Their pitchers are going good and the team has lost none of its hitting strength.

The world's champion Indians, on the other hand, have nothing ahead of them but rough going and that with a crippled pitching staff Stan. Coveleskie is not at his top form to start the eastern road trip. Ray Caldwell is under suspension for being out of condition and Catcher Steve O'Neil, with the brunt of the catching to do is not in the best of shape, either

On top of this the Indians must swing around the eastern half of the circle once again and will be forced to play all but two of the remaining twenty-three games on the road. The Tigers play in Cleveland today and tomorrow and then its good-bye to Dunn field for the rest of the season. Cleveland has lost two more games than the Yanks and has less games to play, for Huggins' men, counting today's doubleheader with Boston, have twenty-six games remaining

The Giants, apparently, have shot their bolt. The fine rally they made by winning five straight from Pittsburgh is forgotten now and as McGraw prepares to lead his men westward to finish the season on the road, there is little hope that Pittsburgh can be headed, even there is a margin of only a game and a half between the teams

McGraw's pitching staff is on the ragged edge, too Douglas is out of condition. Barnes has flopped and Toney is showing signs of blowing up. Young Ryan is lucky anytime he goes the full route and when the pitchers are wobbly, the Giants have about as much morale as an oyster. So it looks like the Pirates and the Yankees to Gotham fans, despite the closeness of the races today.

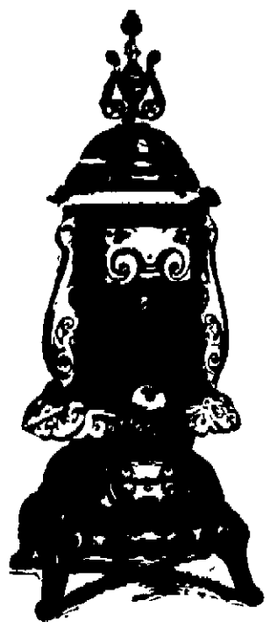
The Hot Blast "FLORENCE" Air-Tight

NO SMOKE! NO DUST! NO DIRT! NO CLINKERS!
EVERYTHING IS CONSUMED.

AT THE END OF THE SEASON'S USE WITH SOFT COAL THERE WILL BE NO SOOT IN THE PIPE.



The "Florence" Air-Tight Hot Blast

is made with jointless leg bottom and base, which makes it air-tight below the grate, which is the only true fire-keeping principle. It will be as good a firekeeper in twenty years hence as it is today.

The "Florence"

will heat twice the space at one-half the cost of operating the ordinary heater. The Florence burns soft coal or slack and all the smoke and gases. No filling up of the pipe or flue with soot. No dirt inside or outside the house. Will burn hard coal and all the gases which escape from a hard coal base-burner. It will produce one-half less ashes than the ordinary stove with any kind of fuel and leave no clinkers or half consumed fule.

It's a Quaint, Attractive, Reliable Weather Prophet

This instrument is made on scientific principles—The figures which prophecy the weather are suspended on a platform, with a piece of cat gut which is very sensitive to atmospheric changes, and is so adjusted that when the figure of the little old witch comes out of her door, rain or snow with stormy weather is sure to come. When the figures of the children come out of their door, fair weather is bound to follow.

This house is made of hard wood and is nicely decorated in front with a stag's head, a bird, glass windows, and has a reliable thermometer between the doors. On the green stone covered roof is a starling's cage. All in all, it is a very neat and useful decoration for your porch.

HENRY THIBAUT CHOSEN DELEGATE TO CINCINNATI

Will Represent Montgomery Grange at State Grange.

Henry Thibaut was elected delegate to the state grange convention to be held at Cincinnati in December at the regular meeting of Montgomery grange, Tuesday evening, in the school-house at DeCliff. Harry Freeman was elected alternate. Arrangements were made to attend the meeting of Pomona grange to be held Saturday evening in the Knights of Pythias hall in LaRue.

Roll call responses were two hints on making labor lighter around the farm and home. Recitations were given by Mrs. Mary Thibaut, Mrs. Ella Clements and Roy Burdge and Miss Marjorie Hensel and Samuel Burbaugh contributed a vocal duet. Miss Helen Tron sang a solo and Samuel Burbaugh played a violin number. A musical reading by Miss Marjorie Hensel closed the program. It was announced that a program would be given by the children at the meeting in two weeks.

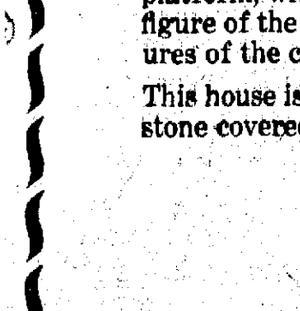
Men Take Yeast Vitamon Tablets to Clear the Skin

Build Firm Flesh, Strengthen The Nerves and Increase Energy

Easy and Economical — Results Quick



Of what use are fine features with an ugly, mottled skin, flabby flesh, sunken cheeks, pimples, sallow complexion, or a careworn, sickly looking face?

If you want to quickly clear your skin and complexion, put some firm healthy flesh on your bones, increase your nerve force and power and look and feel 100 percent better, simply try taking two tiny yeast VITAMON tablets with each meal and watch the results. VITAMON tablets contain highly concentrated yeast-vitamines as well as the two other still more important vitamines (Fat soluble A and Water soluble C) and are now being used by thousands. They positively will not upset the stomach or cause gas, but on the contrary are a great aid to digestion, to overcome constipation and as a general conditioner of the whole system. Pimples, boils and skin eruptions seem to vanish like magic under this purifying influence, the complexion becomes fresh and clear, the cheeks glow with ruddy health, the flesh becomes firm instead of flabby, the eyes bright instead of dull. VITAMON is positively guaranteed to give you new health, energy and ambition and improve your appearance whether you are young or old or the trial costs you nothing. Make the test yourself and see. Be sure to remember the name Mastin's VI-TA-MON — the original and genuine yeast-vitamine tablet—there is nothing else like it, so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get Mastin's VITAMON Tablets from any good druggist, such as [illegible] Drug Store, Bartlett's, Rogers', [illegible].

REDUCTION IN PRICE ON THE DODGE CARS

Announced by Guy C. Stoltz, the Local Agent.

Guy C. Stoltz, distributor for Dodge brother's car in Marion and Morrow counties, today announced a decrease in the price of these automobiles. The price of the roadster is now $1,008; touring car, $1,063; coupe, $1,693; sedan, $1,900; commercial delivery cars, $1,135 and $1,200; one and one-half ton trucks, $1,520.

These prices include cord tires, standard equipment and are delivered in Marion.

The Dodge brother's plant in Detroit is 250,000 orders behind although making 550 cars a day, Mr. Stoltz stated. This is rather unusual under the existing conditions, he says.

Guaranteed Stomach Remedy Makes Big Hit in Marion.

Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy Now Being Sold by Druggists on the Square Deal Money Back Plan

Go to your druggist, says Dr. Orth, if you are a sufferer from stomach trouble, and get a handy form package of Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy — remember the name. Take it according to direction, and if, after taking, you can truthfully say it has done you no good, I don't want your money. Simply take the empty box back to your druggist and get your money back.

So, if you suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Acidity, Sour Stomach, Gas, Heart-burn, Biliousness and Bloating after eating, Headache, coated tongue, or pains in Stomach and side, go to your druggist at once and get a box of Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy, and when you start to take it, realize that you are taking the prescription of a physician who practiced medicine in the States of Pennsylvania and Ohio for sixty years, and that in those years he successfully treated thousands of cases exactly like yours.

Now, if you really want a good, healthy, "never bothers me" kind of a stomach; one that you can always depend upon to digest your food, get a box right way, and remember that it is most rigidly guaranteed.

Special note to out-of-town sufferers—75 cents mailed to the Dr. Orth Laboratories, East Liverpool, Ohio, will bring a box by Parcel Post, and guaranteed. All druggists can supply you.—Adv.

NOW IS THE TIME to Prepare for BABY'S COMING

"A Mother, the holiest thing alive."—Coleridge.

THE expectant mother owes it not only to herself to prepare for an easier delivery, but to her child who should be stronger, healthier and more robust thru her care and intelligence.

What is one of the most important things a mother-to-be should do?

The universal answer from thousands of experienced mothers is this: The mother-to-be should massage the muscles and nerves involved in the function of child-bearing, daily, with an application of Mother's Friend. Because—

Three generations of mothers record the virtue of Mother's Friend for not only allaying distress in advance, but for assisting nature in assuring a speedy recovery for the mother.

So thoroughly has Mother's Friend proven its wonderful efficiency in thousands of cases, that any expectant mother who does not employ its use as directed deprives herself of a powerful agent for her relief and well-being, during the period of pending maternity, and of her prospects for an easier delivery when the eventful hour arrives.

The women who appreciate Mother's Friend the most, and who are loudest in their praise of it, are those who unfortunately did not use it with their first baby and who, thru its use with the second one, were able to fully realize the almost unbelievable relief it gave.

Mrs. Clive Vrudon, 10 Grape St., Gallipolis, Ohio, says:

"Before using Mother's Friend I suffered from Wednesday 'till Sunday. With my last child I used Mother's Friend and was sick only about three hours."

Many doctors and nurses recommend Mother's Friend. For external use—is perfectly harmless. Begin its use at once. Sold by all druggists.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and substitutes—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.

Are You Knocked Out Financially?

A lot of folks are these days. What is the reason?

Granted, many have had some misfortune, some reverses, which come to all, more or less, in this workaday world; but the big outstanding reason affecting the most of those knocked out is the failure to save.

A man in sympathetic touch with the sentiments of men said recently: "This country never saw the day when there was as much painful afterthought as right now—and it is about the most futile kind of mental disturbance a man can have."

Those who had plenty, more than enough, last year and have nothing now, realize, in painful afterthought, the cost of their negligence to save a part for a rainy day.

Many who are financially knocked out have learned a lesson. Many just think they have. Many will forget until "hard times" strike them again.

This bank has been preaching thrift and saving for over eighty years. What more helpful service than persuading folks to save, providing an absolutely safe place for their savings and then paying them 4% interest for their thrift-iness?

Many have started here with a dollar or two and now have worth-while saving deposits.

You can't afford to wait longer to start.

MARION STEAM SHOVEL PICNIC NEXT SATURDAY

Outing Will Be Held at Lincoln Park.

BASEBALL GAME BETWEEN SHOVELS AND SILK MILLS

Number of Athletic Contests Arranged for Old and Young. Band and Orchestra.

The Marion Steam Shovel employes will picnic at Lincoln park Saturday and an extensive program of music and athletic sports has been planned.

Bauer's band has been engaged to furnish the music during the day and Daniel Spaun will provide the music from 7 until 12 p. m. for dancing.

The baseball game will be a baseball game between the Shovel and the Silk Mill teams on the game has been transferred to Lincoln park for that game. The Shovel team wants to win the game to win the pennant.

A number of other athletic contests for men and young of both sexes will be added attractions.

Foot races for fat people, nail driving and wood sawing contests, a rug of war, horseshoe pitching, or barnyard golf, are among some of the games scheduled and awards will be given.

Swings and slides will provide amusements for the kiddies as it is expected that the men will bring their families. The picnic will begin in the morning and special features of the day will be the basket dinner and supper.

Diseases of Women

Treated in the most satisfactory manner. Our home treatment is pleasant to use and gives good results.

The doctor carries all his portable instruments and comes prepared to examine the most obscure cases. Those who apply for treatment should bring a one a small bottle of urine for examination, as it will assist in the diagnosis. References gladly furnished on application. Correspondence solicited and symptom blank furnished on application.

His Evening Hours.

The large number availing themselves of his evening hours, from 7 to 9 has caused Dr. Mahon to make this a permanent feature of his day's work. So persons may call from 7 to 9 in the evening, as well as other times of the day.

The Reason

Dr. Mahon's visit Friday and Saturday makes the 70th visit to Marion. During this period many persons suffering from chronic diseases have been successfully treated. Dr. Mahon's last visit was extensive, for a longer time prescribed for more persons than at any previous visit, for several months. There can be but one reason for the continued maintenance of Dr. Mahon's large practice in chronic diseases and that is he must satisfy his patients.

By Oscar Gast, Deputy Clerk. 236-w-3

LEGAL NOTICE.

Marion, Ohio, August 30, 1921.

Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners of Marion county, Ohio, have determined to further improve a section of the Hackstown-Mossul road in Grand Township, county of Marion, State of Ohio, more fully described as follows.

Situated in Township of Grand, county of Marion, and State of Ohio, and beginning at the Hardin county line on Road No 33, in Section 19, Grand Township, thence in a southeasterly direction, on or near the present right-of-way of said road to the point of intersection with Road No 12 in the aforementioned section, a distance of about 1,088 feet, and there terminating, by placing thereon Five Hundred and Forty-Eight (548) tons of crushed stone.

The Surveyor of Marion county having heretofore been ordered to prepare surveys, plans, profiles, cross-sections, estimates and specifications as may be required for said improvement, has filed same with this board and such surveys, plans, profiles, cross sections, estimates and specifications are now on file in the office of the County Commissioners for the inspection and examination of all persons interested therein, and Thursday, September 8, 1921, at one o'clock P. M., is set for hearing objections to said improvement and for hearing claims for compensation for lands and property to be taken for said improvement or for damages sustained on account thereof and unless such claims are filed in writing with the County Commissioners on or before September 8, at one o'clock P. M., the same shall be waived except as to minors and persons under disability

By order of the Board of Commissioners of Marion County, Ohio.

Per T. A. O'Leary, Clerk of Board. 236-w-3

BUGGY IS STUCK BY AN AUTO, CHILD DIES

Father, John Racey, Formerly Local Street Car Conductor.

FATAL ACCIDENT OCCURS NEAR UPPER SANDUSKY

Five Other Members of the Family Thrown from Buggy. Driver of Car.

Mr and Mrs Nelson Jones and Oliver Aldrich, of Rarey street, were called to Little Sandusky, Tuesday, to attend the funeral of the former's niece, Bernice Racey, who was killed in an accident south of Upper Sandusky, Saturday night. Five others of the family were injured.

Mr Racey was formerly employed as a conductor on the local street car line. Regarding the accident yesterday's Upper Sandusky Union says:

Bernice, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs John Racey, of Little Sandusky, was killed and five other members of the family received injuries when the buggy in which they were returning home from this city Saturday evening about 10:30 o'clock was struck and entirely demolished by a Hudson touring car driven by Charles Stalter, of near Harpster.

Near Marseilles.

The fatal accident occurred about a mile south of town on the Marseilles avenue brick road and near the Perry Lawrence home. Mr. Stalter was headed south at the time of the collision and is said to have been blinded by the glare from another machine approaching from the south. Mr and Mrs. John Racey and children, Bernice, Lawrence, Marion and Thelma, were in the buggy which was struck to the rear of the left side. The terrific force of the impact threw all of the family from the buggy which was left as a mass of broken and twisted debris.

Auto Rabbi Damaged.

The Hudson automobile was so badly damaged that it had to be pushed to the Lawrence residence and placed in the garage. The horse which was hitched to the buggy was only slightly scratched in the accident and was later found over near the Oak Hill cemetery.

Lawrence, the baby boy, nine months old, was found fifty feet back from where the collision happened. He was not injured. Marion, the other boy, was taken out from under the ruins of the buggy. He was badly bruised about the leg and arm, and is believed to have been hurt internally. Thelma was not so badly hurt, having sustained scratches on the right knee and above the right eye. Mr. Racey suffered an injured ankle and sprained back, while Mrs Racey was badly bruised about the back and legs.

The unfortunate smash-up resulted in the death of Bernice Racey, aged six years, who was injured internally and was found in the ditch near the remains of the buggy. The little girl was still alive when found. She was taken immediately to the Perry Lawrence home near by and medical aid summoned. No assistance, however, could stay the hand of death; she died after living about one-half hour.

Bernice Racey was born in Harpster on March 29, 1915. She was a member of the Methodist Sunday-school at Little Sandusky. She was a likeable little lady and will be deeply missed by the family and a wide circle of bereaved friends. The funeral services will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock under charge of Rev. R B Coleman. Burial will be made at Little Sandusky.
